BARBARA.

"Now you must do some credit to my nursing, and get strong and well again."

As Fannie Pleasanton spoke, she put beside the bed over which she was leaning, a great bunch of fragrant violets, moist and beautiful, breathing their sweet stories of shady nooks in deep woods.

A little, pale face, that had been lying listlessly on the pillow, was lifted eagerly.

"Oh, how good you are! Oh, they are like home, my own dear home!"

Great tears rolled down the pale face.

"Tell me about your home. How came you to leave it for this city?" said Fannie.

"My father died, and the farm was sold to pay a mortgage. I had a little money, and I thought I could find work in the city Besides——"

But here Barbara Golding stopped, and a faint, crimson blush rose upon her pale cheeks.

"H'm!" thought Fannie, wise in twenty-two years of city life and education; "a love story."

She asked no questions, but pretty soon Barbara said:

"You have been so kind, I will tell you. Perhaps you can tell me what to do."

"I will help you in any way that I can."

"Two years ago, the summer that I was seventeen, father took a boarder. He was a lawyer, and his health had failed from studying too hard. I think he was about twenty-six or twenty-eight, not handsome, but so gentle and good that we all liked him from the first. And he would come into the garden with me, and help me with vegetables and fruit, because father left that to me; and would carry the milk up to the dairy-room for me, and talk about books and the city, and—oh, Miss Pleasonton, don't you know?"

"He made love to you?"

"Yes," in a faint whisper.

"And you loved him?"

"Yes," again; "I could not help it? When he went away, he promisid to come the next summer, and he told me when he made his fortune, he would come to ask me to share it."

"Did he come?"

"Father died the next spring, and I came here. I thought I should find him, but I did not see him for a long time, and when I did I had become so poor, so very poor, I would not force myself upon him. I worked as well as I could, but this summer I became sick, and but for you I should have starved."

"Do you thnik your lover is still true to you?"

"I cannot tell! I would not trouble him. Sometimes, after I found out where his office was, I would pass by after dark and peep in. It was beautifully furnished; so I hope he is making his fortune; but I only whispered: 'God bless him,' and came home."

"Will you tell me his name?"

"Lennox—Cyrus B. Lennox!"

Fannie Pleasanton turned her face abruptly from the little seamstress, who had been the object of her charity for the last six weeks, and walked to the window. Lifting the soft, white curtains she had placed there, she looked into the street, while ringing in her ears was the name Barbara Golding had just spoken.

"Cyrus B. Lennox!"

She was very pale when she came again to the bedside, but her voice was steady and sweet as ever as she said:

"I must leave you now, Barbara, but I will come in again this afternoon. If you want anything, Mrs. Harper will answer the bell."

"Yes, she is very kind. But—you will come again?"

"This afternoon! Try to eat a few of the strawberries I have brought you!"

She went away then, stopping as usual to tell the janitress of the poor tenement-house to care for the sick girl until her return.

But instead of driving to the stores where she had intended to make final purchases for a nearly completed wedding outfit, she told the coachman to drive home. Once there, unheeding the anxious inquiries of her aunt, astonished at her early return and pale face, she went to her own room, bolting the door, before she sank down in a chair, wearied with the effort to maintain her composure.

Cyrus B. Lennox, the girl said. Fannie Pleasanton, looking around her luxurious room, saw a pleasant confusion of dress, new garments loading tables and wardrobe, drawers overflowing with dainty finery, open trunks waiting to be packed. And the preparations were all for a wedding in one short week, and the bridegroom elect was Cyrus B. Lennox.

What was this story the little seamstress she found starving in the attic had told her? The janitress of the tenement-house had been a servant in the Pleasanton family, and came to Fannie, who was rich and generous, whenever any distress came to her notice. And Fannie had gone at her last call, to find Barbara Golding tossing in delirious fever, evidently overworked, poorly fed, and sitting in the little attic chamber. She had paid for a better room on a lower floor, had sent a doctor, had supplied medicines, food and care, had visited her often, till the doctor pronounced her on the road to recovery.

And in return she had heard that Cyrus, her own betrothed husband, was the lover of Barbara Golding. "Does he love her yet?" the girl thought, pushing back the hair from her pale face, and looking in the mirror. "I am far handsomer. She is pretty only, sweet and fair. I am handsome and accomplished. She is a pauper, I am wealthy! Cyrus is not poor now, since his aunt died; but he will rise to eminence with my wealth to aid him, while she will be but a burden upon him. Only a week. Long before Barbara can even sit up, we shall be on our way to Europe, and he will soon forget her. Why did he seek me if he loved her? It was only a request of his aunt's, not a command, that he should marry me if I consented. But he came to me, and I love him—I love him! Can Barbara give him better love than mine? I can give her money to return to her old home, if she wishes! But if he loves her! Oh, Cyrus, do you love her and not me? I cannot doubt! I must know!"

As if in answer to the thought, a servant rapped at the door, and, opening it, Fannie was handed Cyrus Lennox's card.

"I will come down at once," she said, taking off her hat and smoothing her disordered hair. She was not sorry that he had called while the first excitement of her discovery nerved her with a fictitious strength to endure any word she might speak. She came to him quietly, dignified as ever, but very pale, so pale, he asked anxiously if she was well.

"Well, but tired," she answered. "I have been out this morning."

They talked of indifferent matters for a short time; then Fannie said, earnestly:

"Cyrus, I have a craving desire to ask you one true woman's question. Will you promise me a sincere answer?"

He hesitated a moment, then said:

"I will answer truthfully whatever you ask."

"Did you ever love any other woman before you knew me?"

"Do you not think it enough to know I love you now?" he said.

"You promised me a sincere answer, and you give me an evasion," she said, reproachfully.

"Because you asked me to tear open an old wound your love is healing."

"Yet, even if it pains both you and me, I beg you tell me of your first love."

Fannie's lips were parched and stiff, but she spoke calmly.

"Since you insist," Cyrus said gravely, "I will tell you. Two years ago, in a farm house where I was boarding I met a woman, or rather a girl, a sweet, fair maiden, whom I loved. I was a poor man, then, Fannie, and she had a happy, pleasant home. So I bade her farewell, hoping to return the next year and bring her home to the city. When I did return the farm was sold, and Barbara had gone away. None of the neighbors could tell me anything of her."

"It was your place to seek her!"

"I did, faithfully. But I could find no trace of her whereabouts. In the autumn my aunt died. She had loved you for years, and her last wish was the hope that you would one day be my wife. It was a sweet solace to me even in my sorrow for her loss, and pain at Barbara's disappearance, to have your sympathy, and I soon found there was yet room in my heart for a true, tender love. You cannot believe I would have asked you to be my wife had I not loved you?"

"But if, even now, you found Barbara?"

"I have long ago ceased to seek her!"

"Yet, if she came to you?"

"You are my betrothed wife?"

"Yet if Barbara came to you, poor, friendless and sick; if she told you she had come to the city seeking work, hoping to find you, and had sunk under her burden of loneliness and toil; if she told you, that ragged, footsore and weary, she had looked in at you in your cosy office, and turned away unwilling to throw the burden of her poverty upon you; if she had struggled till she had fainted and fell sick, and was gaining health slowly, hopelessly, with no future before her but a future of poverty and toil; if Barbara came so to you, Cyrus, what would you say?"

But only a pallid face, with great beads of perspiration upon the broad brow, was lifted in speechless agony to meet her eyes. Only large brown eyes, wistful and suffering, appealed to her womanly heart.

Fannie understood that look on his face disclosed her discovery in Barbara's sickroom, and watching him with a penetrating look, said:

"Tell me—will you marry her?"

"I am free to say that I will do anything you desire under the circumstances," answered Cyrus.

Then Fanny, loyal and noble girl as she was, without regard to her own bleeding heart, gave him his full freedom.

Cyrus, being a man of honor, would never have annulled his obligation to Fannie. But now he fairly worshipped her for her great and unselfish act.

He thanked Fannie with tears in his eyes and hastened to Barbara's sickbed, having obtained the address from Fannie.

When entering, the wan face of Barbara was turned to the door, and a yearning look was in her eyes, indicating that she had heard the familiar footsteps.

Now the room held those two young creatures only, whose precious love had been like a religion in their lives, unspoken and too sacred for speech.

"Barbara!"

The girl raised herself on her pillow and rested on the bosom of the one she had adored through all her afflictions.

"Barbara will you kiss me?"

The girl kissed him, and a smile, holy and sweet came to that pale face and she knew that all was well.

Fannie several years afterward was made the happy wife of a prominent physicians.

They Had Better Stay Away.

'I like to know about some office under Gleveland?' he said as he beckoned a lawyer across the street from the door of his saloon.

Grappling a Grizzly.

Desperate Fight of Five Men with a Bear.

One Man Holds Bruin by the Tail while His Companions Shoot.

A recent number of the Denver (Col.) News says: Sheriff Joe Smith, of Conejos county, claims to be one of the greatest hunters in the country, and to sustain this tells a remarkable story of the killing of a grizzly bear on Prospect Peak, in Conejos county, one day last week, assisted by Gerard Austin, county treasurer of Conejos county, Dr. Limburg, Billy Seed, of Hinkle & Co., and C. Lee, Chama, formerly a sheriff of one of the counties of California.

"We were out hunting deer," said Joe, "and had camped the night before in a valley by the side of a stream. Upon turning out in the morning we discovered that there had been a light fall of snow during the night, and also that there were a large number of bear tracks around the camp. Packing up our duds we started to follow the tracks which led directly up the mountain on the regular trail which wound around it clear to the summit and then over the range. When we had gone some miles and had reached a point about half way up, the tracks suddenly diverged into some aspen timber. Following for a short distance with some difficulty, we came to a place that was very much broken, huge bowlders makfurther progress almost impossible. While deliberatiug what to do we suddenly heard the grunt of a bear evidently near by. With rifles in hand, we looked around cautiously, and discovered an opening between two of the largest rocks and marks showing the presence of bruin. He was in a sort of opening or short cave, formed by the rocks but how to get at him was the question. No one cared to follow him, as we were sure he was a pretty tough customer to deal with, being evidently quite large and full grown, judging from the tracks. At length an idea struck me, and, telling the other boys to stay in front, I went cautiously around to the back of the rocks and there saw a small opening through which the tail of the bear protruded. As I am pretty musular and have a good grip I dropped my rifle and grasped the bear's tail with both hands, at the same time shouting with all my might to the boys on the other side to go in and shoot him. Talk about pulling. That pulled worse than ten mules, and I thought several times my arms would leave their sockets, but I braced myself with my feet against the rocks and held on, the bear making a fearful noise all the time. Suddenly I heard several shots and the strain on my arms lessened, and I knew he was a goner. Going around to the front I found the boys had gone in, and joined them. The bear was rolling in death agonies, snapping at and trying to get near us. Finally we closed on him, when with a last effort he rose suddenly and clasped Austin in a terrible hug, bruising and scratching him awfully. At this moment Lee plunged his huge knife into his heart, and he fell dead. They all awarded the credit of the final shot, however, to Billy Seed. The bear, which was a full grown grizzly, and must have weighed over five hundred pounds, we dragged outside with some difficulty and skinned, it being impossible to take the carcass the long distance to town. The skin is at the Hotel Brunswick, and you can judge whether he was not a tough customer to hold."

All of the party were considerably scratched and bruised, and showed signs of the severe struggle they had undergone.

Upon good authority it is stated that children who are very successful upon the stage rarely become good actors or actresses as they grow up.

No Milk There.

A correspondent of the St. Paul 'Pioneer Press' relates that a farmer entered a store in a Dakota town the other day to settle for a load of wheat and made a number of purchases, among which were several pounds of very ordinary butter and three or four dozen packed eggs. The writer inquired if this sort of thing was a common practice of the farmers in the vicinity. 'Farmers,' replied the merchant, contemptously, 'why, we haven't got twenty real farmers in this county. They are all nothing but wheat raisers and that is a long way from being a farmer. A large number of farmers in Dakota who own whole quarter sections of land seldom had a drop of milk in the house, and the butter they eat is bought at the nearest store. They don't even keep a cow or pig, or try to raise vegetables enough to provide for the winter.'

Sidney Smith on Happiness.

I have contempt for persons who destoy themselves. Live on, and look evil in the face; walk up to it, and you will find it less than you imagined, and often you will not find it at all, for it will recede as you advance. When you are in a melancholy fit, first suspect the body, appeal to rhubarb and calomel and send for the apothecary; a little, bit of gristle sticking in the wrong place, an untimely consumption of custard, excessive gooseberries, often cover the mind with clouds and bring on the most distressing views of human life. I start up at 2 o'clock in the morning, after my first sleep, in agony of terror, and feel all the weight of life upon my soul. It is impossible that I can bring up such a family of children; my sons and daughters will be beggars; I shall live to see those whom I love exposed to the scorn and contumely of the world! So I argued, and lived dejected and with little hope; but the difficulty vanished as life went on. My daughters married well; I had two or three appointments, and before life was half over became a prosperous man. And so will you. Friends start up out of the earth; time brings a thousand chances in your favor. Nothing so absurd as to sit down and wring your hands because all the good which may happen to you in twenty years has not taken place at this precise moment.

Wednesday, February 11th, Congress finished the last act of the presidential election of 1884. It counted the electoral votes, 219 for Cleveland and Hendricks and 182 for Blaine and Logan. Senator Edmunds as chairman proclaimed the result, which was received by the audience with great enthusiasm.

LAST Thursday evening the Philadelphia almshouse was the scene of a terrible and destructive conflagration. The building is situate on the western side of the Schuylkill and is divided into two departments—for males and females. The fire originated in the former wing and 19 of the insane inmates perished in the flames, two of whom were women.

MANY speculative opinions and suggestions have been given about the most suitable men for the new president's cabinet. But one point is granted by the most conservative and thinking men and that is that Cleveland's character is a guarantee for the selection of men who are entirely independent of all corporations and who aim to bring this grand republic back to its former purity. He will choose men who will look upon their offices as important positions of trust, to be filled with a deep sense of duty to the general welfare.

GUARDING THE HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The recent dynamite explosion in the House of Commons having demonstrated the fact that under the existing rules governing the admission of strangers to the galleries and lobbies of the Houses of Parliament it would be an easy matter for dynamiters to convey explosives into the buildings during a session of Parliament and cause the death of many of its members, the government has decided to adopt more stringent rules regulating the admission of visitors. Members of Parliament in future will not be allowed to introduce strangers into the galleries and lobbies. The Speaker of the House of Commons will alone have the right of granting tickets of admission to visitors and he will only issue tickets to members for their friends after having received a week's notice, so that in the meantime the antecedents of the proposed visitor can be inquired into. Turnstiles will be erected at the entrances to the galleries and lobbies and experienced detectives will be posted at each of the turnstiles carefully to scrutinize strangers as they pass.

Bad Western Weather.

Intense Cold Prevailing and the Character of the Weather Growing Worse.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The weather in this city and throughout the northwest has been intensly cold all day. At 8 o'clock this morning in Chicago the mercury indicated 15 degrees below zero. The storm signals of the government were flying all day and notwithstanding the influence of the bright sunshine, the mercury only struggled up a few degrees. It reached its highest point—4 below—at 4 o'clock this afternoon. At 6 o'clock it had fallen to 6 below, and at 9 o'clock it was 10 below, while reports from the west and northwest indicate a still lower temperature before morning.

The street car trade has been slow and tedious. Working people suffered much delay and inconvenience going to and from work. The trains on most of the railroads have been greatly delayed during the day, and the situation seemed to grow worse rather than better as the day progressed.

The New Orleans Exposition is in debt $360,000. They want Congress to appropriate another half million dollars. The sentiment in Congress and elsewhere is greatly opposed to any further appropriation.

IRON PROSPECTS IMPROVED.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 16.—The prospects for business among the rolling mills here is very much improved. Several mills are running on double time, and several idle mills will start up this week.

One of the Boys.

Ex-Governor Curtin With His Army Friends at the Theatre.

Washington Dispatch to Pittsburg Post.

Governor Curtin, who is quite a conspicuous figure here, either in Congress or the social circle, created a sensation at the theatre last night, being the object of much unsolicited attention. He has been anxious to see Henry Irving and he told Mrs. Curtin and their daughter Mrs. Wilson, to go and he would meet them there. "They need not engage a seat for him. No, no; he would get a seat and be all right," he said, as they parted. The House stayed in session on the river and harbor bill until it was quite late and by the time the Governor reached the theatre there was standing room only and very little of that. He wedged himself in along one of the side aisles and happened in front of some men who were perched upon a window-sill. One of them touched him on the shoulder and told him to stand aside. Just then a big double-fisted fellow, who was standing close by, pointed his index finger up at the three window sill ornaments with the firm inquiry: "Do you know who you're shov'en? That's ex-Governor Curtin, our old war Governor." Then getting louder, "I'm one of the boys; I served under you, Governor; nobody shall shove you around where I am; git down off that window sill," he shouted; "git down quick," and as they slid from their roost he yelled: "Shill I knock them down, Governor; shill I knock them down?" and the fellow fairly danced with excitement. By this time the doorkeepers had reached the parties, when Curtin's protector shouted, "Git the old Governor a seat," and pulling out a roll of bills, "git him a seat," he continued in a voice that silenced the actors on the stage. "Git him a seat; here's the money for it." There was one private box not yet occupied and the managers were glad to rush Curtin into it to end the scene that was not on the bills. "One of the boys," as he called himself then took his station in the middle aisle and for the rest of the evening gazed intently into the private box at the old War Governor, who during the melee was unable to avoid the attention he was receiving. It created more amusement and applause than any scene in the play.

Miscellaneous News.

THE STORM AT SCRANTON.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 16.—A blinding snow storm accompanied by a heavy gale set in here about 5 o'clock this morning. The trains were stopped and in some instances wrecked. Telephone wires are prostrated and telegraph wires will not work.

The Hocking Valley Strike Starved Out.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—Announcements were made in all parts of the Hocking Valley to-day, that commissary had given out and that aid was no longer coming in, and advised men to get work. This ends the strike that started last April. Many of the men went in last week in anticipation of the climax.

Live Stock Killed on the Railroad.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Feb. 16.—Shortly after midnight last night an east bound freight train on the Pennsylvania railroad was thrown from the track by a broken flange, midway between Spruce Creek and Bermington. Sixteen cars were demolished, twelve of them being filled with fine stock. Two hundred sheep, eighty hogs and several horses were killed.

A BABY BURNED TO DEATH.

New Bloomfield, Pa., Feb. 14.—The wife of James Sque, of Fishing Creek valley, Rye township, left her two children, aged respectively six months and two years, alone in the house while she went to a neighbor's. When she returned the clothing of both was on fire and the youngest was so severely burned as to cause its death in a few hours. How the clothing caught fire is a mystery.

A NEW SWINDLE.—Another infamous swindle upon the farmers has been unearthed and we publish it for the protection of our rural readers. It is conducted ostensibly in the interests of a Chicago firm, but in reality is the work of a pair of sharpers, who are said to be collecting statistics for some sort of report on agricultural products. They send blank statements to farmers and ask them to fill them out and sign their names, merely for the purpose of verifying the report. The next thing the farmer knows the signature comes back at the bottom of a promisary note for a goodly sum. Don't sign papers for strangers.—Ex.

The use of Iodoform or Mercurials in the treatment of catarrh—whether in the form of suppositories or ointments—should be avoided, as they are both injurious and dangerous. Iodoform is easy detected by its offensive odor. The only reliable catarrh remedy in the market today is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from all poisonous drugs. It has cured thousands of chronic and acute cases, where all other remedies have failed. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents; of druggists. 7-4t

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE for March opens with a beautiful steel-plate of two girls caught in a snow-storm, and entitled, "The Sisters," illustrating a powerful story by FRANK LEE BENEDICT. In addition, there is the usual double-size fashion-plate, printed from steel, and colored by hand. "Peterson" being the only magazine to give these expensive and refined fashion-plates. Besides this, there is a colored pattern for a Tidy on Java Canvas; a capital humorous illustration, "The Beleaguered Garrison;" and some fifty wood-cuts of fashions, embroideries, work-table designs, and other things useful to ladies The principal article is an illustrated one, entitled "Washington City; Its Pictoral Side," a remarkably well-written and discriminating paper on the Federal City, considered artistically, architecturally, socially, etc., etc. The stories, as always in "Peterson," are the very best of their kind. The continued novelet—"The Lost Ariadne." by Mrs. John Sherwood, of New York—increase in power with every number. Every lady, as we have often said, ought to take this magazine. The price is but two dollars a year, with great deductions to clubs. Address Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

One of the handsomest and most unique and original ideas in chromo-lithography is the Columbia Valentine, just issued by the Pope Manufacturing Co., of Boston, Mass. The design, which is in twelve colors and mounted upon a panel, is a genuine work of art. The picture, from a painting by Copland, of Boston, is artistically divided into three scenic sections: The first, a view of early sunrise, with a fine atmospheric effect, represents the wheelman's morning ride; the centre scene, appropriately framed by the tire of an Expert bicycle, is a striking beautiful view of picturesque country, a lady riding upon a tricycle accompanied by a mounted bicyclist, crossing a rustic bridge in the foreground; the last scene is a wheel by moonlight, the bright rays of the hublights cutting the semi-darkness. Upon the back of the panel the following descriptive poem is tastfully printed:

FEBRUARY 14, 1885.

A picture of the early dawn,
When as I hasten o'er the lea,
With boon companion of the morn,
I counsel hope, but think of thee.

A picture of the laughing noon,
When o'er the rustic bridge I ride
And dare interpret friendship's rune,
For thou alone art by my side.

A picture when the day has fled,
And with it all my fears are gone,
And troops of stars by Astrea led
Are marshalled in the heavenly zone

The story: morn and noon and night
Bear witness to my love and thine.
The moral: they who choose aright
Shall guard and prize my valentine.

—THE horrible nauseous worm-seed vermifuges and worm syrups have had their day. It's downright cruelty to compel a child to take them when McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders are so easy and pleasant to take that children take them and never know a medicine is being administered. Fast Time in an Ice Boat.

Fine Sport on the Delaware, With a Spice of Danger Thrown In.

The ice boat Hope, of Burlington, N. J., carrying its owner, J. W. Fennimore, and Rufus G. Wilkins, of this city, made the excellent time of half a mile in twenty-nine seconds on Thursday and is said to have done even better on a former occasion.

"It was bewildering, whirling the wind out of us and into us at the same time," said Mr. Wilkins yesterday. "It takes a steady hand and quick eye to handle one of the machines when it blows hard, especially on a wind and over rough ice. One moment she is up on the leeward runner and the next she cants to windward, and then makes a fearful leap in the air and does not reach the ice again in a hundred feet. Sailing on the ice may be called the 'poetry of motion,' but there is a scared-to-death sort of ecstacy thrown in.

"Eighty miles an hour is claimed for a recent improved model—in fact, there is no limit to speed when approaching the wind, if the ice is suitable. The movements are peculiar, with conflicting sensations that hardly admit of explanation. The desire that some people have to leap from a giddy height is doubtless the same. The Hope sailed from Burlington to Camden in sixty minutes, the first and only time an iceboat has been over the course, the ice being rough with many obstructions. We expect to have another sail in a few days."

Wonderful.

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch, Sept. 25th, 1880.

"Very seldom do we read of an actual case of recovery, where hope had altogether been lost, to parallel that which was Monday investigated by a Dispatch reporter, who had heard in various quarters persons talking to their friends of a cure, seemingly little short of marvelous, that had been performed. The plain facts in the case referred to, without exaggeration, are these, as they were learned from the mother of the young man, his pastor and other persons well known in the community:

"William Lincoln Curtis is the name of the young man in question. He is now employed at H. K. Porter & Co.'s locomotive works in Pittsburgh, Pa. A year ago he resided with his mother on Grant street. About that time he went to bed one evening with a violent pain in his shoulder, the result, he thought, of a cold. The next morning the shoulder was greatly swollen, the pain was intense, and aches were felt all through his system. His case was speedily developed into a violent form of chronic rheumatism, among the first notable features of which was the paralysis of his left arm.

"He gradually grew worse, and in a few months the elbow and knee joints and both ankles became enormously enlarged. In March last the cheek bones began to enlarge, and upon his left side particularly, spreading his face out of all resemblance to his former self. The pain in all his joints became intense; fever, with its deteriorating effects, was now added, and he became rapidly reduced to the semblance of a skeleton, while vitality reached its lowest possible condition, and his sufferings were of such an indescribable character that those who most loved him sometimes thought it would be better if he was called away. At this time physicians well known in Pittsburgh informed his parents that they could give no hopes of recovery.

"The young man finally commenced taking that wonderful medicine, PERUNA. In two weeks quite a change for the better, was perceptible. In six weeks all the enlargement had been reduced completely, while in spirits and strength the patient was quite as well as he had ever been in his life. Nearly three weeks ago he resumed work as a machinist at his old place, able to perform as much labor as ever in his life.

"The mother of Willie Curtis, in stating all these facts, said: 'Indeed, I can not look upon the cure much less than as a miracle. I do not hesitate in sounding the praise of PERUNA, and in recommending it to all my friends.'"

The pastor of the church where the young man attended Sabbath school was visited, and he readily confirmed the facts of the deformed bones, the emaciated condition from disease, and of the doctors having given him up. He was greatly surprised at his improved condition. Said he, "If he had not spoken, I would not have known him."

THE MOST REMARKABLE CASE OF ALL.—A gentleman writes to us from Philipsburg, Centre Co., Pa., that his little girl was horribly afflicted with scrofula. Her body was full of sores cars discharging continually thick yellow purtrid matter, and her eyes so swollen and inflamed as to be almost blind. One Bottle McDonald's Blood Purifier has to all appearances entirely cured her. Our neighbors as well as ourselves consider the cure remarkable. A bonafide case. The address of the family can be obtained from the editor of this paper.

Old in Experience.

We have had thirty years' experience in manufacturing Raw Bone Super-Phosphates, and farmers may depend upon our goods.

There is no improvement or economy of manufacture suggested by science or accomplished by skilled experience, that we have not embodied in producing reliable and cheap fertilizers.

It has been shown over and over again by testimonials from reliable farmers, and by analyses made and published by State Boards of Agriculture, that Baugh's $25 Phosphate is a complete and reliable fertilizer for general use.

all such goods, as Mens underwear, Flannel Shirts, Colored & White Shirts, Winter Caps and Hats, Men's Boots and Shoes. Now is your time as those goods will and must be sold,

THE IRISH JAUNTING CAR.

There is no lack of roads in Ireland, and for the most part they are fairly good, though often extemely hilly. The car is on the whole excellently suited to them, and undoubtedly Bianconi, who introduced them, is one of the greatest benefactors of Ireland. Had the Irish been more punctilious in paying their debts, the Italian would have had his statue in every market town. I may remark in passing that he was originally a picture dealer in Clonmel, who, having seen the possibility of a fortune in the improvement of the communications, started the first of the cars from Clonmel to Cahir in the "Waterloo year." Queer stories are told of how he pushed his enterprise, particularly by getting up fictitious competition. The competition was carried rather far, when one of his drivers burst triumphantly into his office one day, begging half-a-crown of his honor to drink his honor's health, since "he had just bruck the heart of the brown mare" in the opposition conveyance by pushing her hard up the hill of so-and-so, the mare being, of course Bianconi's own.

The car, I repeat, is well adapted to the country; it is generally to be obtained on a few minutes' notice, and the drivers in default of relays, will take their passenger incredible distances. The man who drove me from Dunglow brought me on to Ardara from Glenties, where we had failed to find a change. I expressed a fear that I might be "planted" at Ardara should we be equally unfortunate there. "Sure, sir," said my friend, "and sooner than ye shall be bate I'll rowl ye on to Carrick myself, aye and to Killybege to the back of that." I may remark that the hills in some places were tremendous. Yet the Irish car has its obvious drawbacks. It shakes you even with tolerable springs on the smoothest roads, and where the roads are rough the jolting is terrible. It exposes one to the wind and the weather, though much may be gained by sitting the leeside. And, although seated either for four or six besides the driver, it will hardly carry more than two people with comfort if they have any quantity of luggage. When two share the expenses of a private car they are cheap enough. I have found the ordinary charge for posting to be 8d. per Irish mile; while the drivers seem generally to expect the other 4d. Indeed, they make themselves so agreeable that though the "tip" seems high it is difficult to grudge it them.—Cor. London Time.

MIDWINTER ADVERTISEMENT OF

Wm. Wolf & Son.

During this month our stock of winter goods must be reduced. Our space is limited and room must be made for Spring and Summer stock. To effect this we have concluded to reduce prices on such goods. We can not sacrifice first quality goods at the prices sometimes requested by customers, but we will do the very best we can and always guarantee that you will see that it was to your interest to buy.

Clothing we sell at cost, and some at half cost in order to sell out our entire stock. Overcoats, but one dozen left, good, not shelf-worn, at remarkably low prices.

All kinds of Rubber foot gear, a big stock. Rubber Boots worth $4 last year, now going for $2.75, and warranted at that.

Men's and Women's Underwear, large assortment, at all prices.

Very Respectfully,

WM. WOLF & SON.

The eucalyptus, or Australian bluegum tree, is now grown in every civilized country almost were frosts do not occur, but being by nature adapted to act as an evaporating machine, it will not destroy malaria or keep off mosquitoes if planted in a dry and not in a marshy soil.

A chestnut at the foot of Mount Etna is believed to be the largest and oldest tree in Europe. It is hollow, and large enough to admit two carriages driving abreast to pass through it. The main trunk has a circumference of 212 feet. This grizzly giant is said to measure 92 feet in height.

Until lately most of the supply of sugar in Denmark was imported. Now the material for sugar is provided within the boundaries of the kingdom. Six years ago the Danes made 2,600,000 pounds of beet-root sugar, and four years later the figures rose to 8,600,000 pounds. The production of 1882 exceeded that of 1881 by fully 2,000,000 pounds.

Items of Interest.

Infant mortality in France is computed at from 20 to 23 per cent. of the population.

A Paris company has submitted to the Pope plans for lighting up the dome of St. Peter's at Easter ceremonies with electric burners.

Near Danbury stands a white oak tree that is thought to be 200 years old. It is more than 100 feet high, and the circumference at the first limb is 13 feet.

Italy has to keep 5,363 persons under sentence of penal servitude for life. Prison expenses are $2,000,000 a year more than those for education.

A recent estimate, made by means of a very intricate testing apparatus, places the rate at which an electric dot travels over a telegraph wire at 16,000 miles per second.

A clean and perfect copy of John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progess" 1678, has just been added to the British Museum library. Only three other copies are known, and but two of these are perfect.

The wife of the jailer, at Oconta, Wis., was left on guard and armed for the day with a pistol, which her son doubted she had the courage to discharge. He made a test by putting on a prisoner's costume and whooping at her.

There is little of interest now to be found in Elba, Napoleon's island prison. All the relics of his stay there were long since carried away, and the place has sunk into the insignificance from which his presence raised it temporarily. The population is rather over 20,000.

The fire engines in Italian cities are still the same little hand pumps used in the beginning of the century; not a single steam fire engine exists on the peninsula, owing to the rarity of fires, but a movement is now on foot to introduce steam engines according to the American style.

Dr. Spitzka says the popular delusion that the human eye has an influence over insane people similar to that claimed for the same organ over wild animals, is one that is often ridiculed by the insane themselves. He adds that whoever attempts to utilize the notion will recognize its absurdity.

A dealer in cod-liver oil in marseilles advertises that his fish are caught in a safe and quiet harbor, where marine monsters cannot enter to frighten them into diseases of the liver. "They live there," he says, "in peace and comfort; their livers are healthy, and this is the reason why my cod-liver oil is the best."

That the cars upon the rails of certain railroads creep has been a matter for complaint which every one has heard. It will be greater news to many to know that the rails on sleepers creep, too, in the direction of greater traffic. On the St. Louis bridge proper the rails have been known to creep 260 feet in one year, and on the bridge approach 400 feet.

It is said that the sand used in the manufacture of mirrors is now used by a Paris company to make white bricks and blocks, said not to be injured by frosts, rain, etc., and to be very light, the specific gravity being only 1.50 to 1.85 of clay bricks. The sand is first strongly pressed by hydraulic power, and then baked in ovens at a very high temperature. The bricks are almost pure silica.

"Old Moses" is the name of what is thought to be the largest tree in the world. It stands in a grove near Tule River, in California. Although the top is broken off, it is 240 feet high and 12 feet in diameter at the broken part. The hollow of the trunk will hold 150 persons, and is hung with scenes of California, is carpeted and fitted up like a drawing room, with table, chairs, and pianoforte.

It has been discovered by experiments with dogs placed under the influence of morphia even to coma, that the hypodermic injection of solution of theine, the active principle of tea, is an almost instantaneous antidote, neutralizing the effect of the narcotic, and reviving the animal, after the action of the heart has become imperceptible. Cafeine possesses similar properties, but is less immediate in its operation.

Fredericksburg, Virginia, lays claim to the distinction of being the burial place of Edward Heldon, a contemporary and one of the pall-bearers of the immortal Shakespeare. A red sandstone slab marked the grave in St. George's churchyard until it was misplaced by Burnside, who cut a road through the burial ground and removed the stone to the Masonic cemetery, where it now lies under a locust tree. It was in Fredericksburg that the mother of Washington lived after she became a widow and reared her family.

For a full line of BOOTS and SHOES, goods that will prove as recommended, go to A. C. Mingle, House Block, Bellefonte, Pa. I Have the best $3.00 Men's Shoe ever brought tothis County. All bottom figure. Fine Boots and Shoes made to order, by experienced workmen. Repairing done.

—It required three locomotives to pull the train up through the mountains and plow through the deep snow on Monday. They made Coburn station at little before noon and did not go any further than Spring Mills that day.

—We understand that the participants in the musical convention are having an interesting time, though the class is as yet small. More singers are expected to attend in the latter part of the week and the concerts promise to be fine treats.

—By referring to the election news in another column it will be seen that H. E. Duck was elected one of the justices in Penn township, and S. R. Gettig, of Coburn, the other Both are well qualified for the office and excellent men in all respects.

—It is estimated that over three hundred people attended B. F. Philip's sale last Friday. Everybody was anxious to be at the first sale of the season and the excellent sleighing afforded much pleasure to the attendants in going and coming.

—Our citizens deserve credit for their wise choice of borough officers. Every man on the elected ticket is capable for the position and the duties connected with it and we venture to say that the borough affairs will be managed as good in their hands as ever before.

—On Tuesday again, the forenoon train was late, having met several large snow drifts on the track. A gravel train was attached to the rear to help to push the passenger train through the piles of snow. It was noon before the iron horse made its appearance at Coburn.

READ.—The undersigned give notice that they will operate the Lime and Cement Kiln on North street by the first of March, and will constantly keep on hand the best quality of Lime, Cement, Flour, Feed, Plaster, &c. Public patronage respectfully solicited.

McMULLEN & STRUNK.

—Our former townsman, W. K. Alexander, still keeps coming and going. He pays regular visits to his relatives at Millheim and loves to hunt up his old loafing places in town. We believe he spends almost as much of his time at Millheim as at Linden Hall. Well, we are all glad to see him in our midst.

—On Monday morning a 16-inch snow greeted the eyes of the people and gave the shovel brigade an opportunity later in the day to exercise their muscles. In the evening and Tuesday morning it grew cold and stormy drifting the snow in the fence corners and across the pavements. This is the deepest snow we had for several years in this neighborhood.

—In last week's issue we shortly mentioned the death of Mr. Frederick Weaver, of Haines township which occurred on Wednesday, Feb. 11th, 1885. Father Weaver was one of the oldest and most respected citizens of said township, having been born and raised there and spending all his life there. Three brothers and one sister had preceded him to eternity and he was the last one of that family. He joined the Lutheran church when 18 years old and has been a consistent member of the same up to his death. His age was 82 years and 7 days. He leaves a wife, four sons and a daughter to mourn his death. The funeral took place on Friday forenoon, Rev. Aurand officiating.

Coburn Briefs.

It required three engines to bring the mail train west on Monday and two on Tuesday, making slow time at that. It reminded us of railroading on the prairies.

The revival in the Evangelical church is still in progress.

Rev. A. S. Baumgardner lectured for us on Wednesday evening. Subject—Temperance.

Since the deep snow on Monday our town is rather quiet. Z.

Penn Hall Shavings.

Frank Fisher has an engine which raises quite an excitement when he blows the whistle.

Edward, a son of Daniel Weaver, who had been on the sick list for some time, is able to be about again.

Cal Fisher and Harvey Smith have devised a new plan for making paths in the snow. They put it in operation on Monday last and it proved a grand success.

A valuable horse belonging to Mr. J. W. Bartges of this place had been driven to Madisonburg on Thursday evening of last week and on returning home took fright and broke one of his legs. The horse had to be shot to relieve it from its sufferings. The sleigh was also demolished, but the occupants escaped without injury.

Mr. Editor, the shavings are scarce simply because Jack's Plane is dull.

---FOR CASH---

Believing that the people of Centre county are fully awake to their best interests and that they have the intelligence to comprehend and the courage to recognize the means best calculated to bring about the most desirable results, we would most confidently and earnestly submit the following for your careful consideration :

That king credit has slain its victims by the thousands upon its extended battle fields is a fact beyond successful contradiction, and we would only ask you to call to your recollections your own observations, in proof of this fact, and, the pitiful appeals of those still under the crushing heel of the tyrant fall upon our ears with unmistable certainty and we would say, come, let us rush to their rescue by wielding the sword of justice and striking the monster down with a decisive blow and keeping him there by eternal vigilance. This can be done only by a system which pays as well as demands CASH on delivery.

This system we will adopt and put into operation on the twenty-sixth day of December 1884, after which we will buy and sell positively for cash and produce only and will name such figures on goods as will fully convince every intelligent person that it is to their interest to buy their goods where is radically and permanently established and strictly adhered to. Kindly inviting and soliciting the co-operation of every one in giving this system a thorough trial, we are A Semi Savage Life.

KING CREDIT finds no quarter, but where the

The Story of a Nebraska Girl and Her Indian Husband.

'I am going to tell you of something that happened in Northwestern Nebraska about four years ago,' said a Western man the other day. 'Old man Norris owned a big ranch out there, and when he got a house built he made his two daughters go out and live in it. They were delicate girls, and it was a terrible place to put them. Indians were roaming around freely, and the white men whom they saw where a good deal more savage than the Indians. The girls had been fairly educated, and they had tastes which made their life on the ranch extremely irksome. One of them was a romantic girl, who saw a possible lover or knight in every man who came along, white or red; but the other refused to be interested in anything, and before very long sickened and died. It so happened that a young Indian from Fort Robison, named Lone Crow, was at the house on the day of the funeral, and, seeing the young girl in tears, he spoke to her pleasantly and sympathetically. He was a pretty good-looking fellow, if he was a redskin, and when she gazed upon his stalwart frame and handsome features she took as much interest in him as he had in her. He managed to get around that way frequently after that, until it became a talk among the cowboys that the girl had an Injun lover. The white men often talked of resenting his familiarity, and on one occasion, when a few of them had a good deal of whisky aboard, they tried to maul him, but he threw one of them against a tree and broke his leg and cut another one in the lip so he can't talk plain to this day.

'Finding that things were approaching a crisis, Mr. Crow proposed and was accepted. As the facilities for getting married were not very good, it became necessary to get the old man's consent. At first he stormed and threatened to whip the girl and her lover. He ordered the girl to her room, and told the Indian that if he ever came round that way again he would brain him. This made Crow ugly, and, after a good deal of talk, he attacked the old man and gave him the worst thrashing a white man ever received from an Indian. The girl, hearing the disturbance, peeped in at the door and gave Crow a word of encouragement. When the old man spied her he yelled:

'Liza, I cave! Take the savage away before I kill him. I can't make him understand.'

'Liza ran up, and, seizing Crow by the arm, led him off. When the old gentleman got up and recovered his breath he said: 'You can have him, Liza, but on one condition, and that is that the miserable cuss wears United States clothes and leaves me alone. I want peace in the family, but, if he ever jumps on me again I'll carve him into sandwiches.'

'The conditions were agreed to, and the wedding took place as soon as the old man could get a missionary. Crow makes a very good husband, and his wife seems to enjoy Indian life. Since she had to lead a semi-savage sort of a life, why not have a savage husband, eh?'

Indian Wit.

A half naked Indian was looking on at some workmen in the employ of Governor Dudley, of Massachusetts.

'Why don't you work and get yourself some clothes?' asked the governor.

'Why don't you work?' retorted the son of the forest.

'I work head work,' said Dudley, pointing to his head.

The Indian said he was willing to work, and agreed to kill a calf for the governor. Having done so, he came for his pay.

'But,' said the governor, 'you have not dressed the calf.'

'No,' said the Indian: 'I was to have a shilling for killing him. Am he not dead governor?'

Finding himself outwitted, the governor gave him another shilling for dressing it. It was long before the Indian came back demanding a good shilling in place of the bad one which he claimed the governor had paid him. The governor paid him another. Returning another time with still another brass piece to be changed, the governor, convinced of his knavery, offered him half a crown if he would deliver a letter for him. The letter was directed to the keeper of the prison, and ordered him to give the bearer a certain number of lashes.

The Indian suspecting that all was not right, and meeting a servant of the governor, induced him to take the letter to its address. The result of the Indian's stratagem was that a severe whipping was administered to the unfortunate servant. The governor was greatly chagrined at being a second time outwitted by the Indian. On falling in with him some time after, he accosted him with some severity, asking him how he had dared to cheat and deceive him so many times.

'Head work, governor, head work,' was the repiy.

Pleased at the fellow's wit and audacty, the governor freely forgave him.

Terrific Boiler Explosion.

Great Destruction of Property and Remarkable Escapes from Death.

HAZLETON, Feb. 7.—About half-past eleven o'clock last night a terrific explosion occurred in the boiler house of the colliery of Linderman, Skeer & Co., at Humboltd, a few miles from Hazelton. The fireman, William Culp, was in the house where there are eight large boilers and had just walked away from the one that exploded. The first intimation he had of anything of the kind was the terrible shock and the roise of the explosion. The boiler house was completely demolished and bricks, large pieces of iron, timber and other debris were thrown hundreds of feet away.

So great was the force of the explosion that a piece of the boiler weighing a ton and a half was hurled a distance of two hundred yards when it crashed through a dwelling house occupied by the families of James Carpenter and William Leonard. The whole lower part of the front of the house was broken in and all the furniture in the lower rooms was badly demolished. The occupants were sleeping in the house, but none of them were injured. The escape of Culp, the fireman, from serious injury was almost miraculous. He was completely covered by the debris, but was only slightly injured. Patric Boyle, the engineer, was in the engine house and was seriously scalded, besides sustaining other injuries. For a hundred yards in every direction the debris is scattered about on the ground. No one seems to know the cause of the explosion, but it is to be investigated.

Arabs Fighting with Bashi-Bazouks.

A letter from the scene of warfare with the False Prophet's rebels to the London News says: I find that I am the first correspondent who has reached as far as Debbah, and this I have done in a voyage from Dongola, in a little lateen-rigged open boat. The village was destroyed long ago by the Mudir and there is now nothing but the fort built, as all these forts are on the very worst plan a fort can be, that of a square. For the little garrison of Bashi-Bazouks I have great respect. Time after time it has been attacked, and has successfully defeated the attackers. The last time the Arabs had recourse to strategy. They beat their tom toms very vigorously half a mile off; meantime they crept silently into the ditch underneath the low bastion where was the one gun of the fort. One of them, however, let off a rifle by accident, and the garrison were at once alarmed. Though it was dark they could perceive thousands in the ditch, and they opened a withering fire upon them. The enemy, however, succeeded in actually seizing the wheels of the gun and also the legs of the Turkish commandant, who was standing by, and a pull devil, pull baker took place. At length the officer was dragged within the ramparts. Hundreds of Arabs were mowed down in their desperate attempt to enter. In some places they threw skins over the zariba, and thus walked over the prickly abattis. At others, where there was no ditch, but merely mimosa against the wall, they mounted on each other's shoulders. At one time they actually succeeded in bursting open a wicket near the gate, but all who entered were caught in a rat trap—they found themselves in an open court from which there was no exit and they were mowed down mercilessly. For two hours did the assault continue. At length the Arabs, having lost the greater part of their numbers, retired. In these desperate assaults by these Arabs one is remind d of the heroism of their ancestors, and Saracens. The different points where the beseigers made their attacks were shown me. The ground was still strewn with belts, torn garments and sandals. The bodies were flung into the Nile.

DR. JOHN BULL'S

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.

DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR

For the cure of Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well.
